THE SPUR / ETACEC 16-18 FOR ARTISTS IN RESIDENCE

As part of the call for Euroregion and Creative Europe – Cooperation Projects, The Spur / ETACEC 16-18 project is launching a selection process for European artists from a member state of the European Union to take part in its artist-in-residence programme. Call Interested visual artists should send their CV, a summary of their artistic trajectory, proposed project, details of related activities with different audiences and a methodology for documenting the creative process. Visual artists should also list three centres and residency spaces in order of preference.

Applicants

This will take place at close proximity (each artist will have a mentor in the place of the residency).

- Workspace and a venue in which the artist can showcase and make their research available to the user (or consumer): gallery, shop, exhibition room, etc.
 - Fully-equipped dwelling
 - Work space that serves as a workshop/studio¹
 - Direct contact with and placement in artistic or co-working organisations, working alongside other professionals from the creative industries

Terms and conditions

Suggested subject

In order to lend coherence and interest to the project, as well as to ensure that it is a shared project of intellectual creation, a common theme for reflection, analysis and creation will be proposed for the call. It is intended to serve as a starting point for totally free reflection that can be adapted to the interests and professional trajectories of the artists who opt for the residency programme. As such, the applicants can propose research themes that address contemporary artistic practice from a social, conceptual or mediation perspective, etc., paying special attention to the factors involved in social cohesion and which foster interculturalism as a framework for study, analysis and reflection. As such, the key factors of the project shall include the exchange of knowledge, the sharing of experiences and mediation, and the emphasis will be placed on the work and creation processes.

This common thread of thinking, analysis and creativity will focus on the city, understood as an urban territory, a complex space in constant transformation due to social, political and economic factors, and traversed by numerous agents with their respective interests and agendas, which sometimes converge but diverge on other occasions. The aim with these residencies is to encourage the development of creative and research processes which, anchored in the urban tissue of the hosting cities, address the city from the stance of historical, social and multicultural questions and in short, issues of global relevance.

This theme should be treated as a starting point, one which the artist and/or the creative professional taking part in the programme will be entirely free to adapt to their interests and artistic style.

Artists may work on areas of research in contemporary artistic practice from a social, conceptual or meditational perspective, while paying particular attention to aspects of diversity and/or coincidence offered by The Spur cross border space as a geographical and conceptual area, as a framework for study, analysis and reflection.

This initiative also aims to help artists' practical and intellectual work become recognised as a valid tool for school and cultural research, just as experimental and scientific methods are in other fields of knowledge.

The participating cities' acclaimed cultural heritage and interest to tourists also constitutes a space for social and cultural ties between past, present and future that comprise a space for shared work and reflection on contemporary artistic practices.

- Period of residency: 2 months or 8 weeks between 1st February and 31st March 2017
- Number of selected projects: 6 European projects, one for each city
- Presentation of results: results will be presented in a format agreed on by the artists and the directors of the participating centres
- Participation in the seminar that will take place in Rome between the 13th and the 26th March 2017 (this meeting is included within the fees and travelling expenses paid) in order to come together to share experiences (with the other artists and with the art centre directors) and discuss the artistic and professional projects they plan to implement, as well as present their experiences and debate them in public
- Linked activities: the project should include at least one educational or awareness-raising activity to be carried out during the residency. Expenses arising from materials and logistics should be agreed on with the art centres.

The artists and/or creative professionals should also take part in the artistic life of the city where they are in residence

- The organisers reserve the right to publicise the projects and the results obtained from the residencies
- Artists and/or creative professionals should be fully in residence in the assigned place for at least 80% of the agreed periods.
- Details of the centres and residency projects are given in Appendix 1.
